Overview

The League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and the National Council of La Raza (NCLR) will host the 2009 Latino State of the Union, The Second Annual Roundtable on Law, Policy and Civil Rights on January 19, 2009 in Washington, DC.

The policy conference will aim to educate Washington, D.C. policy makers, press, leaders in the Latino community and a national audience on the critical issues and legal and policy developments expected in the new Obama Presidential Administration and the 111th Congress that will have the greatest impact on Latinos.

Through this discussion, Latino leaders will evaluate the importance and manifestation of key local, state and federal court cases and legislative developments and the unique consequences they bear on the Latino community.

There will be a morning plenary session to be followed by three presentation panels on education, the economy and hate crimes and civil rights enforcement. The LSOTU will conclude with a luncheon on "Latino portrayals in the Media".

Participants will include the leadership from a variety of national civil rights organizations as well as elected officials from the House and Senate. In addition, invited are a number of key officials from the Obama administration and the Congressional Hispanic Caucus.

For more information, please see the tentative agenda that follows.
